THE DRIVE FOR DISTINCTIVENESS

A banner for the next century

"...students are seeking an experience that holds learning, living, and faith together. It should be encouraging to all of us that the future vision for Wartburg affirms the very distinctiveness that we have valued and cherished over the years."

A lot of talk on the Wartburg campus these days centers on the "M" word. Momentum? Morale? Money? Let's talk about "Marketing."

How does Wartburg communicate the value of its education to a new generation of students and their parents—and the general public? Of immediate concern is marketing to reach current and future enrollment goals. The broader concern is "name recognition." How well is Wartburg known? Where, by whom, and for what?

The recommendations from a recent marketing study underscore the importance of "word of mouth" marketing. Thirty percent of the students in our study enrolled this fall in a school they have known about all of their lives. Six of 10 attend a school they learned about before their junior year in high school. Most recruitment begins in the junior year, meaning these efforts are too late to influence more than half the prospect pool.

Two of three students learned about the college they chose from a source over which the college has no control—alumni, family members, friends, coaches, teachers, and current students. All of this suggests the importance of your role in telling the Wartburg story. Wartburg wants to draw students from a wider region. The name recognition that helps most comes through the efforts of alumni, parents, and friends of the college.

Why would students come to Wartburg College? The study suggests Wartburg's future will depend significantly on the college's ability to answer this question.

The answer must be, "Wartburg offers something students can't find anyplace else." The feature article in this report describes how we are answering this question. It introduces words or phrases you will be hearing a lot more about.

The study confirmed that students who are interested in Wartburg put a greater emphasis on connections among academic, residential life, and co-curricular activities. They have a greater concern for the whole person. They expect an emphasis on values and spiritual development. These students are seeking an experience that holds learning, living, and faith together. It should be encouraging to all of us that the future vision for Wartburg affirms the very distinctiveness that we have valued and cherished over the years.

Homecoming 1997, 'Rhythm of the Knight'

The football team and football parents' committee correctly predicted the outcome of the 1997 Homecoming game with their parade entry, "And the Beat Goes On." Wartburg defeated Dubuque 54-0. Seniors Mark Haussmann of Bloomsburg, Pa., and Heather Fink of Parkersburg, Iowa, reigned as king and queen of the weekend festivities.

DIVERSITY AWARD—Iowa Lieutenant Governor Joy Corning, right, congratulates Dr. Les Huth '58, professor of education, who accepted an award from Corning's Committee on Diversity. The award recognized Wartburg's Waterloo Teachers Project.

Teacher program earns accolades

A project initiated by the Wartburg Education Department to train more minority teachers in the Waterloo-Cedar Falls, Iowa, area received the highest award given by the Iowa Lieutenant Governor's Committee on Diversity.

The Waterloo Teachers Project allows minority teachers aides and other employees of the Waterloo and Cedar Falls schools to maintain their present positions while studying to become fully certified teachers.

Lt. Governor Joy Corning said the project "builds individual pride and community spirit and demonstrates that cooperation, understanding, and creativity really can help meet difficult challenges."

About 25 percent of students in the two schools district are African-Americans, compared with only 6 percent of the teachers.

Dr. Les Huth '58, professor of education, said school employees are ideal candidates for this project because of their "love for teaching and commitment to young people and the community."

The teacher candidates take two evening courses in Waterloo during each of Wartburg's Fall and Winter Terms. In the summer, they take four courses on the Wartburg campus, with transportation provided by the college.

One of the program goals is to provide full scholarships for each qualified candidate. Contributors to those scholarships include the R.J. McElroy Trust of Waterloo, Pioneer Hi-Bred International, and the American Association of University Women's Legal Advocacy Fund, which named the project its 1995 Progress in Equity Award winner.

Three teachers aides are expected to complete the program during this academic year, while another 19 are likely to complete the program in the fall of 1998.

The program was developed through the planning efforts of Huth and Dr. Walter Cunningham, deputy superintendent of the Waterloo Schools.

Grant funds upgrade for journalism lab

A $7,500 grant from the Ethics and Excellence in Journalism Foundation of Oklahoma City, Okla., assisted in a recent upgrading of the McElroy Communication Arts Center journalism laboratory.

The project included installation of new Power PC Macintosh computers and upgraded printing and scanning capabilities. The laboratory is connected to the campus computer network, which provides access to the Internet and other electronic resources.

Communication arts students use the facility for classes and publication production. It is open to other students for part of each week as one of several campus computer centers.

Diers recognized for leadership

Dr. Herman Diers '49 of Tacoma, Wash., received Tacoma's 1996 City of Destiny Award for Leadership, recognizing his work with block groups in the Hilltop community.

Diers has been working with the Hilltop Action Coalition since his retirement from Wartburg in 1993. During that time, the number of block groups has grown to 70, covering three-fourths of the inner-city area.

The coalition works to create a positive environment where illegal drug and gang activity will not flourish.

Thomsen inaugurated at Grand View

The Rev. Thomas W. Thomsen, former director of financial aid and development staff member at Wartburg, was inaugurated in September as the new president of Grand View College, Des Moines, Iowa.

Matthias will step down at end of December

Dr. Ronald Matthias '54, vice president for administration and finance since 1984, will retire at the end of December for health reasons.

In his September letter of resignation, Matthias cited ongoing eye problems. "The situation makes it impossible for me to meet my responsibilities as I would want to meet them," he said.

He will continue to direct the Artist Series, a responsibility he assumed this fall. He also will convene and chair a committee to begin planning for Wartburg's sesquicentennial in 2002.

"No one is more highly regarded and respected among us than Ron Matthias," said President Robert Vogel in announcing the pending retirement. "We are grateful for his dedicated, faithful, forthright, wise, and humble service."

Matthias has been a student, a faculty member, and an administrator at Wartburg. He taught in the History Department from 1959 to 1970, then served as dean of the faculty from 1970 to 1975.

"It has been a great privilege—not only once, but three times—to be part of the Wartburg community."

– Dr. Ronald Matthias

He left Wartburg in 1975 and worked for a year as supervisor of agency management education and training at Lutheran Mutual Life Insurance Company in Waverly. He spent the next eight years as director of the Division for College and University Services of The American Lutheran Church in Minneapolis, Minn. He returned to Wartburg in 1984.

Matthias earned his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in history from the University of Chicago.

"It has been a great privilege—not only once, but three times—to be part of the Wartburg community," he said. "It is the people of this community who make it both a joy and a high adventure to live and work and learn here; it is they who are the basis of Wartburg's bright promise for the future."

Matthias said he and his wife, Donna, will continue to live in Waverly.

W-SR superintendent named new VP

Dr. Mike Book, superintendent of the Waverly-Shell Rock School District since 1989, will take over Jan. 1 as Wartburg's new vice president for administration and finance. His appointment was announced in October.

"Throughout our interviews, we have been pleased to discover how much of Mike's current work and experience matches our expectations," said President Robert Vogel.

Vogel noted that Wartburg has had a tradition of hiring people for this position who have a background in education. Dr. Ronald Matthias '54 was a professor and dean of the faculty at the college before assuming the vice president's job. His predecessor, the late Walter Fredrick, Jr. '39, was a high school superintendent before joining the Wartburg staff.

Book is a native of Forest City, Iowa, and attended Waldorf College in Forest City for two years before completing his Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Northern Iowa. He taught high school Spanish and English in the Oxford Junction Consolidated School from 1972 to 1976 and was a high school principal in Rolfe, Iowa, from 1976 to 1978. He was superintendent of the Wellsburg Community School District from 1978 to 1981 and the Prairie Community School District in Gowrie from 1981 to 1988.

Book earned a Master of Arts degree in education from the University of Northern Iowa. He completed his Specialist in Education and Doctor of Education degrees at Drake University.

Torkelson directs Iowa All-State Festival Chorus

Dr. Paul Torkelson '76, director of the Wartburg Choir and Castle Singers, was selected to direct the 50th anniversary Iowa High School All-State Chorus, which performed Nov. 23 in Ames. A native of Rake, Iowa, Torkelson is only the third All-State Chorus director to have Iowa roots.

Opera star Simon Estes, a native of Centerville, Iowa, joined the 600-voice chorus as a soloist in the festival finale. The concert premiered Ode to Joy, a choral piece by James Quitman Mulholland. Wartburg commissioned the piece, which the composer dedicated to Torkelson.

Students meet Arafat during May Term

Jessica Nipp '98, of White Bear Lake, Minn., was one of several Wartburg students who met Yasir Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, during a trip to Israel last spring. Archaeology and the Bible, a May Term religion course, included work on an archaeological dig and trips to places of historical and cultural significance in Israel. While touring in Bethlehem, the students learned Arafat was there for a meeting. They waited outside the meeting room until he emerged and were rewarded with handshakes. Pictured from left are Arafat, U.S. Consul General Edward Abington, and Nipp. Behind Nipp is Samuel Samir, one of Arafat's chief administrative assistants and a member of the Lutheran Church in Bethlehem, where the group stayed for one week.

Rod heads College Relations Office

David K. Rod, formerly a staff editor and writer with Corcoran Communications in Iowa City, Iowa, is Wartburg's new director of college relations.

At Corcoran, Rod researched, developed, and edited marketing publications for colleges and universities. He also was involved in developing marketing strategies. As a freelance writer, he reviewed plays for the Iowa City Press Citizen and wrote test units for the American College Testing Program and Profiles, Inc., in Iowa City.

Rod graduated from St. Olaf College in 1971, earned an M.A. degree at the University of Iowa in 1973, and completed a Ph.D. degree in theatre and media arts at the University of Kansas in 1985.

Before moving to Iowa in 1986, he directed the theatre program at Texas Lutheran College in Seguin for 12 years. He was a visiting assistant professor in the University of Iowa theatre arts program for two years before joining the Corcoran staff.

Rod replaces Sherry Parrish, who is now director of special gifts at Susquehanna University, Selinsgrove, Pa.

Religion prof earns doctorate

Dr. Walter "Chip" Bouzard, Jr., assistant professor of religion, received a Ph.D. degree from Princeton Theological Seminary, Princeton, N.J., in graduation ceremonies last May.

His thesis was titled "We Have Heard with Our Ears, O Lord: Sources of the Communal Laments in the Psalms."

Wartburg makes U.S. News for 10th consecutive year

U.S. News & World Report magazine has selected Wartburg as one of the best national liberal arts colleges in the United States for the 10th consecutive year.

Wartburg was one of 160 national private colleges cited in the 1997 Best Colleges survey. The magazine surveyed 1,422 accredited four-year schools that were divided into categories based on classifications by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching. The survey also cited 229 national universities, 60 regional universities, and 40 regional liberal arts colleges.

More students exploring

More Wartburg students are exploring academic areas before they make a decision about their eventual major. According to Dr. Edith Waldstein, registrar and associate dean for academic affairs, nearly 100 of this year's students list themselves as exploring.

Exploring students work with specially selected advisers who represent a broad spectrum of academic disciplines. They help students select specific courses that provide insight into possible majors.

Waldstein says with careful advising, most students can wait until the first or second term of their second year to declare a major and still graduate in four years.

Biology professor makes his mark in first year

▶ by Duane Schroeder

It didn't take Dr. Dan Gretch long to leave his mark at Wartburg. He had not yet completed his first year of teaching when students selected him last spring to receive the 1996 Student Award for Teaching Excellence.

In a convocation address to the college community, Gretch reflected on the reason he finally chose teaching as his profession.

"There are few other professions where you can touch the lives of others and gain their full attention," says Gretch, who spent seven years doing blood cholesterol research in the biochemistry department at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

"Having experienced a liberal arts education myself, there was a desire on my part to be service-oriented, but I still wasn't committed to teaching when I first entered graduate school. I think my teaching assistantship hammered home to me a deep-seated desire to teach."

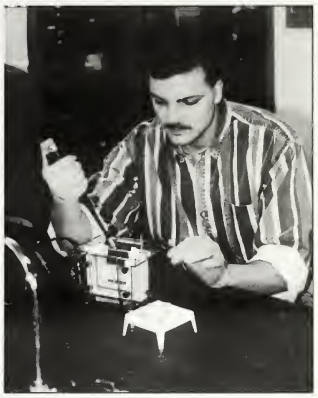
Gretch says Wartburg students bring a strong work ethic to their study.

"They are in college for the right reasons. They get more out of themselves than one would expect. If you get down to the nitty gritty of interaction, either in small groups or one-on-one, and give them your time, they are appreciative."

Gretch says the Biology Department promotes a high level of interaction with students through its advising program, its "hands-on science" philosophy, and its willingness to leave laboratories unlocked and to share resources.

He adds that interaction with students is "something you have to want to do. Nothing in your contract says that you have to do it. It can be demanding, particularly if you are busy."

His approach to the classroom also emphasizes being responsive to student needs.



"I don't want to tell students about science. I want them to experience it."
– Dr. Dan Gretch

"I don't like to come into a class and say, 'Okay, today we have these 92 things we have to cover.' I don't want to tell students about science. I want them to experience it. We are engaged in a partnership, so I feel it is important to create an environment with a high level of interaction."

Gretch describes Wartburg as a good fit for him, noting its similarity to his alma mater, the College of Great Falls in Montana, which enrolls about 1,300 students.

"I quickly recognized that Wartburg is a place where strong connections are made," he says. "For me, those connections are late-night study sessions with students and faculty and lunches in the Den. They are sporting events, concerts, and plays where I personally know many of performers. They are chapel and Outfly. They are community."

Gretch was recently named Wartburg's representative to Project Kaleidoscope's Faculty for the 21st Century. The group of 350 college and university faculty members will serve as catalysts for strengthening undergraduate programs in science and mathematics.

Gretch says the Wartburg Biology Department has a strong consensus of where it wants to go and its goals for the future. He points to its strong placement record, noting that 80 percent of Wartburg's medical school applicants have been accepted over the past 10 years, compared to a national average of 50 percent.

"And we're at or near 100 percent in other health-related and professional areas," he says.

"We already lead locally and are recognized regionally. With the right vision, we could be a model for other biology departments nationwide."

Courses, equipment reflect advances

To keep up with advances in science, the Wartburg Biology Department has added courses in molecular biology, biotechnology, and microbial ecology.

Dr. Ann Henninger, department chair, says recent additions of more sophisticated laboratory equipment support DNA work including electrophoresis apparatus, photophoresis, micropipitters, and a microcentrifuge.

Students are working with vertical electrophoresis equipment for protein separation and immunoblot analysis, a polymerase chain reaction thermocycler for DNA amplification, and eukaryotic cell culture facilities. Henninger says several classes utilize a scanning electron microscope, and a water-quality research laboratory is now under construction in Becker Hall of Science.

Alumni named to admissions staff

Three Wartburg alumni have joined the college admissions staff. Hired this fall were David W. Fredrick '65, Jennifer Block '95, and Stacy Frain '94.

Fredrick

As associate director of admissions, Fredrick heads the international recruiting effort. He previously served for 27 years with the U.S. Agency for International Development and the U.S. Peace Corps. He lived and worked in Thailand, Senegal, Zaire, Yemen, and Morocco and had extended experiences in Indonesia, Lesotho, Bangladesh, and Mali.

Most recently, he was special projects officer in the Bureau for Legislative and Public Affairs in Washington, D.C.

Fredrick earned a master's degree in economics at Clark University in 1970 and completed course work for a doctorate in resource economics at Utah State in 1975.

Block

Block covers Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and the southeast states, as well as Louisa, Lee, and Des Moines counties in Iowa. After graduating from Wartburg, she completed a semester of law school at Drake University, where she also worked as an administrative assistant in the office of the provost.

Frain

Frain is in charge of Western Iowa, Nebraska, and South Dakota.

She returned to Wartburg after serving as associate director of the enrollment services office at Rochester Community and Technical College, Rochester, Minn.

Fall enrollment hits new high

Wartburg's Fall Term enrollment reached an all-time high this fall with 1,467 students. The previous record, set in 1989, was 1,456 students.

Total enrollment, which includes full-time and part-time students, is up 34 over last year. Full-time enrollment increased by 63 students to reach 1,356. The full-time total includes 406 first-year and 66 transfer students.

Wartburg's American ethnic population has increased to 131, up 24 from a year ago. This group of students now makes up 9 percent of the student body.

Oppermann known to generations of students

Earnest F. Oppermann '38, known to generations of Wartburg alumni from his 23 years as dean of students, died of cancer Sept. 10 at Bartels Lutheran Home in Waverly. Throughout a long battle with the disease, he had remained at home and active until shortly before his death. He was 79.

In addition to his duties as dean of students, Oppermann coached baseball from 1948 to 1982. His baseball teams won more than 350 games, six Iowa Conference championships, three District NAIA titles, and one Area IV NAIA championship. In 1964, his team went 2-1 in the NAIA World Series.

Oppermann was inducted into the Iowa High School Baseball Coaches Association Hall of Fame in 1980. Two years later, he was named Coach of the Year for District V in Division III of the NCAA.

He served on several NAIA baseball rules committees and was a frequent guest speaker at Iowa High School Baseball Coaches Association clinics.

He was the Knights' head football coach in 1951 and head basketball coach during the 1955-56 season.

Earlier in his career, he coached and taught at Oakland Township High School in Popejoy, Iowa, and at Hampton, Iowa, High School.

He earned his master's degree at the University of Iowa in 1948.

Oppermann is survived by his wife, Deleva, a daughter and son-in-law, Sharon '66 and the Rev. Al Guetzlaff '65 of Racine, Wis., a granddaughter, Ann Guetzlaff Burras '95, and her husband, Corey Burras '94, also of Racine.

Coaches named to Halls of Fame

Wartburg athletic coaches Monica Severson and Steve Johnson were named to athletic Halls of Fame at their alma maters this fall.

Severson, head women's basketball coach and assistant athletic director, was inducted into the Dakota State University Hall of Fame in Madison, S.D. A 1985 Dakota State graduate, she is in her ninth year at Wartburg. Her teams have compiled a 157-52 record, won Iowa Conference championships in 1990 and 1992, and made six NCAA postseason appearances, twice advancing to the sectional playoffs.

Johnson, head men's and women's cross country and track coach since 1989, was named to the St. Cloud State University Hall of Fame, St. Cloud, Minn. He graduated from St. Cloud State in 1977 and completed an M.S. degree there in 1985. He has led Wartburg to nine Iowa Conference championships in men's and women's cross country and women's track.

In nationals, his Wartburg women's cross country team has placed third twice, fifth once, and eighth once. He has been voted IIAC Coach of the Year six times in women's cross country and once in men's cross country. He was named NCAA Central Region Track Coach of the Year in 1994 and IIAC women's track Coach of the Year in 1995.

Best season ever

Heather Nail of Iowa Falls, Iowa, goes for a kill with support from Jennifer Nettleton of Algona, Iowa. The volleyball team ended the season with a 24-9 record and a second-place Iowa Conference finish.

Two '96 grads receive postgraduate scholarships

Two former Wartburg student-athletes have been awarded NCAA postgraduate scholarships.

Lea Lucas '96 of Letts, Iowa, who competed in track and field and cross country, and Deb Wilkinson '96 of Solon, Iowa, who competed in basketball and track and field, won the $5,000 awards.

Lucas graduated with a 3.944 grade point average in English. She is attending law school at the University of Iowa. She won more than half of the races she competed in as a collegian and was a two-time Iowa Conference champion in the 800. She holds four Wartburg school records and was a member of six IIAC championship teams, three in track and three in cross country.

Wilkinson graduated with a 3.870 grade point average with majors in art and business administration. She plans to study advertising in graduate school but is undecided where she will enroll. She was an outdoor track NCAA All-American in 1995, placing sixth in the discus. She scored points in the shot and discus at all four IIAC track and field event meets in which she participated and was a member of three championship teams. She was a three-time All-IIAC academic selection and three-time academic choice of the U.S. Track Coaches Association.

Miller finalist for coaching honor

Wartburg wrestling coach Jim Miller was third runner-up for 1996 Coach-of-the-Year honors as selected by the Wrestling Institute Newsmagazine (WIN).

WIN gave its second annual award to Dan Gable of Iowa. Other runners-up were T.J. Kerr of California State-Bakersfield, first, and Pat Pecora of Pitt-Johnston, second.

Miller has compiled an 82-12-1 dual meet record at Wartburg in his five years as head coach. He was NCAA Division III Rookie Coach of the Year in 1992 and Division III Coach of the Year in 1993 and 1996. He also has been named the Iowa Conference Coach of the Year three times. The Knights have won the past four IIAC titles.

Smith ranked 10th

Wartburg senior Tom Smith, 1996 national champion at 126 pounds, is one of only five Division III wrestlers included in an annual preseason ranking by Wrestling USA. The magazine ranked Smith 10th out of 120 wrestlers from all college divisions, NCAA or NAIA, at that weight.

Smith is a two-time Iowa Conference champion after transferring to Wartburg from the University of Iowa. He was a national runner-up as a sophomore and national champion last year. His two-year record at Wartburg is 86-11 with 23 falls. Last season, he was 44-2, with both losses to Division I nationally ranked wrestlers. He made it to the finals during last summer's trials for the U.S. Olympic team.

adopts strategic plan
002 and beyond

▶ by David Rod

Why would a student come to Wartburg College?" asks President Robert Vogel. "Why would students from the suburbs of Minneapolis or Chicago, from Wisconsin or Missouri, from western Iowa, from Des Moines or Cedar Rapids travel all the way to Waverly, Iowa, to attend a college that might be smaller than their high school?

"The answer," he concludes, "has to be because they find something distinctive here, an education they can't find anywhere else."

As Wartburg approaches its sesquicentennial in 2002, the challenge is to answer, "What is distinctive about Wartburg?" in a way that speaks to people who are not acquainted with the college's rich tradition.

To this end, the Board of Regents has approved the adoption of a new strategic plan to guide Wartburg into the 21st century.

Entitled "Enriching the Tradition: The Drive for Distinctiveness," the plan comprises five major components. It involves defining Wartburg's educational programs in a new way, building a new library, continuing efforts to connect Wartburg to the world, expanding the endowment, and focusing on new marketing strategies.

Launching AdVenture Learning™

Education for the Future

To focus attention on the distinctive learning experience Wartburg offers, the college has coined a new term: AdVenture Learning™. The term combines two notions—added value and venturing forth—to create a third, the idea that education ought to be an adventure.

The "Ad" in "AdVenture" points to something added, something in addition, something more.

"We want people to be aware that Wartburg offers added value—a college education plus—that sets us apart from other choices a student might be considering," Vogel says.

"Venture" comes from Venture Education, the term formerly used for Wartburg's global and multicultural immersion programs. In the AdVenture Learning context, it encompasses the idea that the best education involves risk-taking, even if students never leave campus. Learning truly begins when students venture beyond what is safe, comfortable, and already known.

"We want people to be aware that Wartburg offers added value—a college education plus—that sets us apart from other choices a student might be considering."

– President Robert Vogel

"At Wartburg, we encourage students to explore, to step beyond their comfortable boundaries," Vogel says. "We will continue to do so more and more in the coming years. In the years ahead, the curriculum will undergo significant changes as faculty committees examine every Wartburg course and requirement to make sure the learning experience we provide—AdVenture Learning™—continues to be the learning experience our students need."

Dr. Mary Margaret Smith, vice president for academic affairs and dean of the faculty, has asked faculty members in each department to consider their majors in terms of what will best prepare students for the challenges they will meet in the 21st century.

"I have encouraged them not to think incrementally, but rather to jump five or 10 years ahead," Smith explains. "What should the curriculum look like then? Never mind for the time being how we get there. It's like deciding to go to the moon. You cannot do it by steps."

Curricular review and revision will extend beyond individual majors to embrace the general education component of AdVenture Learning™ as well. Here, Smith says, the aim is to achieve coherence and connections: "We should expect that faculty and students understand the connections among general education courses and see that they have a relationship to the academic major."

Smith cites the example of a general education course dealing with environmental issues, which might be housed in the social science area. "Our best strategy is to highlight continuity: economic, political, and social concerns, yes; but also the personal, as expressed perhaps in literary form, and also the scientific point of view.

"This connected approach informs us better than any single discipline could do."

Teaching and Learning

Besides rethinking the curriculum, Smith anticipates that faculty members will need to explore new ways of teaching and learning: "The world is changing quickly, especially in terms of information. You can't cover everything anymore, so you have to teach students the skills to gather information themselves. It is increasingly important for students to be responsible for their own learning.

"My guess is that, if you walked the halls of Luther Hall 30 years ago, you would hear mostly lecture. Today, many classes work in small groups, where students are involved with each other in problem-solving activities. This will continue.

"At the same time, technology is creating new possibilities for how we go about teaching and learning. We need to ask how we can use technology to support group-centered learning at Wartburg. The learner's library will be a visible sign, designed to demonstrate this concept."

"The new building constitutes a radical departure from traditional library architecture because its design is inspired by a new way of thinking about libraries."

– Jill Gremmels, college librarian

Building a Learner's Library

A Resource for the Future

A new library is the centerpiece of Wartburg's vision for the future. More than just a new building, it will be a facility born from a new way of thinking about libraries.

In the 21st century, the college library will be called upon to play a key role in providing technological resources, connecting students to information, and shaping students' learning experiences.

"We see the library as much more than simply a storehouse for books," says Vogel. "It must serve as a meeting point for learners, tools, and experts, a facility that helps learning happen."

This "learner's library" should:

• Accommodate varied learning styles and purposes and provide spaces and resources appropriate to each. Some individuals learn visually and others have auditory, kinesthetic, or tactual learning styles. Sometimes, learners need to sit alone with a book in a quiet setting. At other times, they need to interact with others, to talk out loud, to work together on projects. Wartburg faculty members increasingly assign collaborative learning projects, and students need places to carry them out.

• Provide convenient access to the tools of learning, including both printed materials and the technology that will shape 21st-century learning. This means not only arranging the collection so that learners can find materials easily, but also locating technological tools close to the experts who can help learners use them.

• Make it easy for library staff and faculty members to assist students in their learning. When students have questions, there should be no confusion about where to go or whom to ask. The library should also provide spaces where faculty members can lead project-centered learning experiences.

Architect Evans Woollen has already completed the preliminary design for the new Wartburg learner's library. The three-level brick structure will contain 58,000 square feet with shelving for up to 235,000 volumes.

"The new building constitutes a radical departure from traditional library architecture because its design is inspired by a new way of thinking about libraries," says Jill Gremmels '80, college librarian. "To our best knowledge, there is no other library like it."

Connecting the Campus to the World:

In Touch with the Future

Prospective students and others who are looking at Wartburg from a distance may wonder, "What would it be like to live in Waverly, Iowa? Wouldn't I be isolated? Wouldn't I be far removed from what's happening in the world?"

Wartburg faculty, staff, and students know that Waverly is not isolated—and much less so now than ever before with a new four-lane highway to Waterloo/Cedar Falls, a fiber-optic campus network, and the Internet.

Indeed, Wartburg surprises people. A convocation speaker who discussed the Amazon rain forest was astounded to discover how many Wartburg students have already been there—through a May Term course on the social and cultural ecology of Guyana.

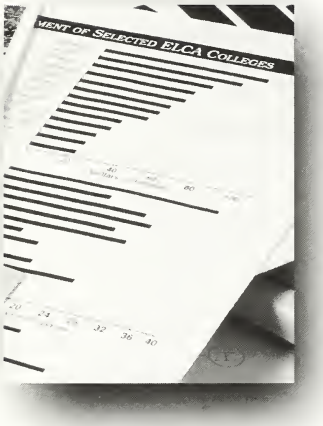
Nevertheless, the college would like people not to be surprised.

"We want to highlight the many connections between our campus and the world beyond, so that Wartburg acquires a well-deserved reputation for being at the center of things," says Vogel. "We will continue to promote cultural exchanges, the Artist Series, arts immersions, travel opportunities, and cross-cultural programs.

"We will foster dialogue on societal issues and challenges through the Convocations Series, the Futures Project, visiting speakers, and other events.

"We will carry forward our efforts to link the campus to the world through fiber optics, the Internet, and satellite technology.

"Finally, we will continue to develop the master plan for a distinctive and connected campus."



"Endowment is a resource that keeps on giving and giving." – Dr. Richard Torgerson, vice president for development

Pushing the Endowment to $75M:

Securing the Future

Wartburg's endowment has tripled during the last 10 years. The challenge is to triple it again during the next decade.

Dr. Richard Torgerson, vice president for development, says meeting this challenge is crucial to the college's future.

"Historically," he points out, "the two sources of revenue colleges have depended on are tuition income and government grants for students. All the signs indicate that both of these are now strained to their maximum limits and can no longer be counted on.

"Endowment, on the other hand, is a resource that keeps on giving and giving."

Torgerson notes that endowment growth will come about in three ways:

- Through new cash gifts and planned gifts.
- Through internal endowment growth achieved by spending only a modest amount of the annual endowment earnings.
- Through wise investments.

New endowment monies will provide ongoing support for scholarships, academic programs, and faculty and staff development.

In addition, the college will establish an endowment to support ongoing technology needs, particularly in relation to the learner's library.

"The more endowment income that can flow into the annual budget," says Torgerson, "the more pressure we take off annual tuition increases—which helps keep Wartburg accessible to the students we serve."

Creating New Partnerships:

Shaping the Future

The final segment of the new plan focuses on marketing strategies. Competition will be a fact of life in the educational marketplace for years to come. Amid the clamor of voices vying for attention, how can Wartburg make prospective students aware of its benefits?

"A major part of the answer, we believe, is that we will be known by the company we keep," Vogel says. "We intend to make a thoughtful, creative, and energetic effort to put Wartburg in partnership with other organizations and individuals who can direct prospective students' attention to us in positive ways.

"Because we want Wartburg to be known as a distinctive college, we plan to seek out and forge partnerships with other distinctive colleges, associations, and corporations. We will continue to look for ways to provide services that strengthen our ties with communities, schools, and churches. The Waterloo Teacher Project, recently honored by the Iowa Lieutenant Governor's Committee on Diversity, is a prime example."

Vogel says the college also expects to involve alumni and friends in a team effort to bring Wartburg to the attention of prospective students.

The new plan, "Enriching the Tradition: The Drive for Distinctiveness," is an ambitious vision for Wartburg's future. It will shape every major decision that is made here and the experience the college offers its students in coming years.

It will serve as Wartburg's road map into the 21st century. ■

"We intend to make a thoughtful, creative, and energetic effort to put Wartburg in partnership with other organizations and individuals who can direct prospective students' attention to us in positive ways"

Creative Giving Opportunities

The following are only a few of the many creative giving options available to benefit donors, their families, and Wartburg College as well. We will be happy to provide information that may be helpful in planning such a gift. Contact the Wartburg College Development Office, 222 Ninth Street N.W., P.O. Box 1003, Waverly, IA 50677-0903, 319-352-8495.

- Cash is one of the world's scarcest commodities. While gifts of cash are possible for some donors, most find it difficult to free up any significant amounts.

- Stocks, Bonds and Mutual Funds provide great giving potential. These gifts allow Wartburg to sell the stock and receive fair market value without paying capital gains tax. The donor receives an income tax deduction for the full fair market value of the shares. Any donor who has the option of giving cash or giving stocks, bonds, and mutual funds to Wartburg would find it beneficial to give the stocks, bonds, and/or mutual funds and use the cash to purchase additional stocks, bonds and/or mutual funds. This results in a stepped-up basis in a new asset for the donor.

- Personal Property gifts provide a simple method of helping Wartburg. In many cases, donors may give fully depreciated property (the deduction value is limited to the donor's depreciated basis) while Wartburg has available the full appraised value of the asset.

- Grain and Livestock gifts eliminate the self-employment tax for some donors. A commodity gift made directly to Wartburg has a value of approximately 20 percent more than a cash gift resulting from the donor's sale and the cost of taxes on the same commodity.

- Real Estate gifts may be made directly to Wartburg. The college may then rent the real estate, sell it, or trade it for other properties adjacent to the campus.

- Bargain Sales are gifts to Wartburg of appreciated assets (usually stocks or real estate) from which the donor seeks only to recover the cost of the initial investment. The donor's capital gains tax liability is limited only to the proceeds from the sale—the balance is an outright charitable gift with no associated capital gains tax liability.

- Stock Bailouts offer the owners of closely held corporations the opportunity to make a gift of highly appreciated stock to Wartburg and then allow the corporation to repurchase that stock with retained earnings. Donors enjoy the benefits of a current income tax deduction, and the transaction may also draw out some of the retained earnings in the corporation. Wartburg would then receive the cash from the proceeds, while the shares of stock are simply retired and remain treasury shares. If a donor has transferred part of the corporation's ownership to other members of the family, this gift of shares of stock results in a higher proportion of ownership by other family members because there are fewer shares outstanding.

- Gift with Wealth Replacement enables a donor to make a substantial gift to Wartburg of appreciated stock or real estate. In most cases, it will be possible for the donor to apply the tax savings from such a gift to a life insurance policy with either a single premium or a short-term vanishing premium. The life insurance proceeds ultimately replace the gifted assets for the donor's family.

Heritage Club

The Wartburg College Heritage Club has entered its 20th year of existence. Established in 1977, Heritage Club provides recognition for alumni, parents, and friends who designate a future gift for Wartburg as part of their estate plan. Membership now includes more than 915 individuals who represent 566 families. Some members choose to remain anonymous. Documented future provisions for the college by Heritage Club members have grown to more than $20 million.

Heritage Club continues to be a major factor in building the college endowment. The endowment has tripled in the last 10 years. It must triple again in the next 10 years. Endowment secures the future of Wartburg: the quality of teaching and scholarship, the support of qualified students, the character and appearance of the campus.

You can make a difference for Wartburg now and in the future by joining this group of committed alumni, parents, and friends who care enough to include the college in their future estate plans. To become a member of Heritage Club, simply inform us that you have made provision for a future gift to Wartburg. Examples of such gifts include wills, bequests, life estate plans, trust arrangements, life insurance, charitable gift annuities, qualified retirement plans, and the establishment of an endowed scholarship or restricted endowment. A Heritage Club brochure with a membership enrollment form is available from the Development Office.

Tower Club

Annual Unrestricted Gifts

The Tower Club recognizes alumni, parents, and friends of the college who provide $100 or more to Wartburg's Annual Giving program. Tuition and fees alone cover 80 percent of the cost of a Wartburg education. Annual gifts help make up the difference. Dollars raised through the Annual Giving program support all areas of the college: scholarships and grants for students; library enhancements, computer, and scientific equipment and technology; maintenance of campus facilities for teaching, study, recreation, and student living; and support for athletic, music, and religious programs.

Membership levels include:

Diamond ..... $5,000 and above	Silver ..... $500–$999
Platinum ..... $2,500–$4,999	Bronze ..... $250–$499
Gold ..... $1,000–$2,499	Orange & Black ..... $100–$249

Tower Club recognition includes the following parameters:

- Matching gift funds are credited to the donor's contribution for recognition.
- Membership levels in this report include gifts received from June 1, 1995, through May 31, 1996.

Alumni

To the alumni whose names appear in this report, we say thank you. One of the marks of a distinctive college is the percentage of alumni who contribute annual support for the college's mission and vision. At Wartburg, the roll of alumni includes those who have attended the college for at least one year. In 1995-96, 23 percent of non-degreed alumni and 38 percent of degreed alumni provided support for the college.

The roll of alumni donors on the following pages includes the total amount contributed by each class. With your continuing support, we will achieve and sustain our goal of 40 percent annual alumni participation.

Parents

Wartburg parents are a key to the college's future. In addition to their financial assistance, parents also provide the college with students, and they are effective in telling the Wartburg story.

Wartburg College thanks parents for their loyalty and participation. "Once a Wartburg parent, always a Wartburg parent." Your interest and support are appreciated.

Alumnus rebuilds life, writes book after surviving suicide attempt

▶ by Linda Moeller

Nine years ago, Earl Alexander's life hit bottom. Despairing over alcoholism and the news that he was HIV-positive, Alexander '78 left the party he had thrown in his hometown of Dubuque, Iowa, and drove his car into the Mississippi River. Thirty feet out and 20 feet under water, he had what he describes as "a spiritual awakening."

"God was next to me in that car, telling me my children needed me," says Alexander, the father of two daughters now in fourth and seventh grades.

Alexander survived his suicide attempt and went on to rebuild his life. He enrolled in a 12-step alcohol recovery program and has been sober since. He and his wife, who were high school sweethearts, recently celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary.

Despite his HIV-positive diagnosis, Earl has remained free of AIDS symptoms for the past nine years. During that time, he has become a popular speaker, traveling to more than 10 states and 150 cities a year to discuss alcohol and AIDS education.

AUTHOR—Earl Alexander '78 displays a copy of his book, My Dad Has HIV, at the Wartburg Bookstore. Alexander dedicated the book to the late Marion Gremmels '52, a Wartburg professor and author who inspired him to write children's books.

"I can't treat it as a disease or it's going to kill me," says Alexander, who is diabetic as well as HIV-positive. "I treat it as a discomfort. I pretend I'm on Prozac, and it works!"

The prognosis has not been as hopeful for many of the AIDS victims Alexander has befriended since wading out of the river in October 1987. Twenty-five members of a support group he founded in Dubuque have died of the disease.

This year, Alexander became an author as well as educator. His book, My Dad Has HIV, co-authored with Dubuque elementary teachers Sheila Rudin and Pam Sejkora, was published in February by Fairview Press, Minneapolis, Minn. Aimed at children 4 to 8 years old, the book relates the facts about HIV and AIDS in what the publishers describe as "a colorful, sensitive, and hopeful way that young children can easily understand."

In December, third graders across the country will learn about the Wartburg alumnus and his book through an article in the nationally distributed Weekly Reader.

Alexander dedicated the book to the late Marion Gremmels '52. As a Wartburg elementary education major, he took Gremmels' course in children's literature. She later gave him a copy of her book, The Cat Who Knew the Meaning of Christmas, as a graduation gift. Coincidentally, her book was republished in a new format the same year Alexander's book came off the press.

Alexander calls his work "putting a face with the disease of AIDS." He says it is rewarding to speak to college groups where students remember him from sessions he conducted at their high school or middle school. He stresses the importance of beginning AIDS education early, citing the case of a 17-year-old Iowa high school girl who recently died of AIDS and had probably been infected with the virus in junior high.

Alexander spoke to a Death and Dying class at Wartburg on Oct. 17, his 40th birthday. Thankful to have reached this milestone, he says he has another children's book in the works. This one, written by the same co-authors, will be called Our Dad Has AIDS.
